

Working at Novartis <sup>[1]</sup>

For the third consecutive year, we've been ranked No.1 pharmaceutical company in Fortune's World's Most Admired Pharmaceutical Companies.

If you asked our people why they chose to join us, they'd tell you that it was because of our portfolio and the opportunities it represents, and the breadth, diversity and scope of roles a global company like ours can offer. And, most importantly, we have a reputation for being an excellent employer.

At Novartis, creativity and diversity are encouraged, effort is recognised, success is celebrated and people feel valued and listened to. You will be rewarded not only for high-performance and achievement but for your attitude and approach to working together for the benefit of patients. And developing people internally for the majority of our key positions is critical to enable our people to grow together with our business.

Choose us: for a long, diverse and fruitful career.
